AT ROME WITH EMPEROR WILLIAM.

The Prince was tolerably well known here. He was one of the most prominent figures in a group of the nobles in the city in 1918, and he had promised the Prince of Wales to come over and visit him this year. Because of the well-known notorious fact that Rudolf was at the time of the present Emperor's reign in Germany, the opinion prevails here that his death removes one danger to Europe in the future, although nothing is known of the views of the new heir-presumptive, Archduke Charles, who has three sons. It has been asserted that the Archduke resigned his claim to the throne because he inherited the property of the Duke of Modena. It appears, however, that the renunciation was conditional and he may step again into the line of succession by abandoning the fortune of Modena.

THE LONDON PRESS.

LONDON, January 31.—The Times says that Rudolf, "the sternest quality" of the throne required he could not show until the time of trial came. He was not only a man of letters, but he was a man of letters. He was not only a man of letters, but he was a man of letters. He was not only a man of letters, but he was a man of letters.

A SAD PICTURE.

The Standard says: "All that the world knew of him was in his favor. The shock will be felt in Europe far outside the limit of his empire. The shattered hopes of the parents present a picture that might well touch the stoutest heart."

WILL NOT AFFECT AUSTRIA'S POLICY.

All the papers dwell upon the cordial intentions of the Prince of Wales and Crown Prince Rudolf. The general feeling is that the death of the Crown Prince will not affect Austria's policy.

RUDOLF'S FEAR OF BISMARCK.

PARIS, January 31.—Outside the Austrian Embassy, the news of the death of the Austrian Crown Prince produced the greatest commotion. Rudolf was very intimate with Mr. Clemenceau, but at Rudolf's desire the intimacy was kept a secret, because Rudolf said that if the fact became known at Berlin he should never reign. Clemenceau held Rudolf in the highest esteem as remarkably able and cultivated. Everybody expresses surprise that one so little and active should be seized with such a sudden attack. The family is subject to epilepsy, it was thought that Rudolf had escaped that malady. Clemenceau says that Rudolf's fear of Bismarck would have been a great help to him in such a terrible emergency as his expression of it.

THE CAUSE OF HIS DEATH.

The Vienna correspondent of the Associated Press states that the death of Crown Prince Rudolf was caused by a rupture of the cardiac walls, with an effusion into the pericardium.

Swissmen Mr. Chamberlain.

LONDON, January 31.—Next to his illustrious father, Joseph, the Birmingham girl believed to be the most beautiful woman in the world, Mrs. Chamberlain, whose photograph was published recently, to be one of the sharpest and shrewdest fellows on earth, but the Birmingham Mail yesterday printed a story which indicated that her husband, Mr. Chamberlain, the elder was bringing his Yankee bride across the sea a fashionably dressed man called at Highbury, Mr. Chamberlain's residence, and asked permission to inspect the cradle. He gave the name of Ernest and gave letters of introduction from Ernest Wiman, whose acquaintance Mr. Chamberlain had made during his visit to America. Ritchie claimed to be Mr. Wiman's nephew, but the object of the visit in visiting England was to bring over to his uncle some choice specimens of American orchids for Mr. Chamberlain's collection. Austen Chamberlain showed his visitor over the conservatory and after a long pleasant conversation Ritchie suddenly remarked that he had lost his purse and would trouble Austen for a loan to pay his hotel expenses. The sum asked for was given without demur. Next day Mr. Ritchie called again on Austen Chamberlain, produced a bill on the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co. of New York and asked for an introduction to a Birmingham bank in order to cash the bill. He succeeded in changing it on the street, but the introduction that Austen Chamberlain gave him and he repaid the sum borrowed, having obtained a much larger sum on the bill. After Mr. Ritchie was returned to the drawer and nothing had been heard of the orchids which Mr. Ritchie was bringing. It seems that he went to St. Albans to the great orchid establishment of Sanger & Co., who lately were buying in the market, and passed himself off as Austen Chamberlain. He purchased orchids to a large amount, and tendering a forged check, obtained a large sum as change. He then disappeared.

CLARENCE'S FUGITIVE.

Young Chamberlain applied to the magistrate at Birmingham yesterday morning for a warrant against Ritchie for forgery. He charged him with having obtained $600 from him by means of false bill of exchange. Ritchie was described as follows: About 40 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches high, dark complexion, black hair, heavy dark mustache, corpulent and bulky in appearance; speaks with a strong American accent. The police here believe that Ritchie belongs to a gang of States Island forgers, notes of whose departure for England was given them by the New York Herald. Mr. Austen Chamberlain was seen by the POST-DISPATCH correspondent yesterday. He admitted that he had been taken by the coyness of the man; yet said he would not have made a free with him had not the evidence presented the following letter:

DEAR SIR: I beg to commend to your friendly notice my American friend, E. W. Wiman, who is about visiting Birmingham for a few days. Yours faithfully,

HENRY IRVING.

Brighton, December 11.

Mr. Irving was seen after the performance at the Lyceum last night. He said he had never heard the name before and told the correspondent the letter was a forgery.

Gladstone on Divorce.

LONDON, January 31.—The Times says that Margaret Lee's novel "Divorce" is the greatest and deepest of all human confessions in the marriage controversy and an American from what ever source this has reached it is of development more advanced than elsewhere. After referring to a few statistics of divorce in the States, he says: "We must beware of sweeping and premature conclusions, but it seems indisputable that America is the arena, where many problems connected with marriage are being rapidly, painfully and perilously tried out."

France.

PARIS, January 31.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Mr. Jouveaux interpellated the Government regarding the measure it intended to take to arrest the progress of Bonapartism. The speaker attributed the change in public opinion chiefly to the facts that have been daily heaped upon the Government and to the indifference of the Ministers toward their voters. The liberty of the press and liberty of speech had been allowed to degenerate into anarchy. The Government ought to defend itself from the attacks of slanderers.

PREMIER FLOQUET'S REPLY.

Premier Floquet, before replying to Mr. Jouveaux, asked leave to introduce a bill re-establishing the scrupulousness of the system of election.

Deputy D'Ornano, a Bonapartist, here exclaimed: "The only possible issue is the dissolution of the Chamber."

M. Cassaux, a member of the Right, asked leave to speak on a matter of urgency. The President refused permission. Fresh protests from members of the Right led to a scene of great confusion. The President finally called the members to order, and decided that the House must hear M. Floquet.

England.

LONDON, January 31.—Mr. Phelps, the American Minister, and his wife sailed for Southampton for New York to-day on the North German-Lloyd steamer Lahn. A large number of American and members of the diplomatic corps were on the pier to see them off. In London and here there is a hearty farewell. Baroness Burdett-Coutts presented Mrs. Phelps with a lovely bouquet. The Mayor and members of the Corporation of Southampton accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Phelps on the tender which conveyed them to the Lahn.

A BIG ROBBERY.

The country-house at Ramsdale near Windsor, Mr. Henry White, Secretary of the American Legation, entered by burglars last night and jewelry valued at $5,000 stolen. The burglars made their escape. It is believed that they are the same party who committed the burglary at Taplow Court a year ago, as the methods of the burglars in each case were identical.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, January 31.—Mr. William O'Brien was to-day lodged in the Clonmel Jail to undergo the sentence of four months' imprisonment imposed on him at Carrick-on-Suir for contempt of the court. When ordered to remove his civilian clothing and don the prison garb, Mr. O'Brien refused to obey the order, whereupon he was seized by warders and his clothing was forcibly removed. His resistance was then abandoned and he was taken to the prison, where he was lodged in a cell.

Germany.

BERLIN, January 31.—The article in the Contemporary Review on the "Bismarck dynasty," is not being circulated here.

The Sudan.

LONDON, January 31.—Advices from Massowah state that the Hadab tribe have asked for Italian assistance against Osman Digna, who threatens to attack them.

A Baby Voyagers.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. KANSAS CITY, January 31.—N. C. Woods, aged 7 years, who has been living with his grandmother in Memphis, Tenn., took a ticket to Kansas City, where his father, a widower, lives, boarded a Memphis train, and was seen at the station. He said he wanted to make a little visit to his father and then he would be willing to go back.

Well Down Stairs.

Maria Murray, a beggar, 42 years of age, while under the influence of liquor last evening, called on Dr. Kelly of Virginia avenue and Sherman street, and fell down a flight of steps. She cut a severe gash two inches long in her forehead, and was sent to the City Hospital.

IN THE JURY'S HANDS.

A Chillicothe Murderer Waiting for a Verdict.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, January 31.—The case of Harry Hudson, charged with the wilful murder of M. W. Oppenheim, was called at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and all the testimony was taken at 5 o'clock. The jury retired at 6 o'clock. On the day of the murder, Hudson was seen in the habit of leaving Hudson money. Hudson was seen in the habit of leaving Hudson money. Hudson was seen in the habit of leaving Hudson money. W. F. Coulter's Funeral.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, January 31.—The obsequies of W. F. Coulter of the World took place yesterday, services being held at the family residence in Brooklyn at 2 p. m. The body was sent to Chicago for interment in the family burying place there.

Sam Small at Clifton, Me.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. CLINTON, Me., January 31.—Rev. Sam Small arrived here to-day and preached to an immense congregation at the Methodist Episcopal Church. Sunday school at 10 o'clock. The service was held at night and will also hold a service at 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Sunday Stealing.

E. W. O'Sullivan, 360 Garrison avenue, was entered at 6:30 last evening through an insecure door and two jewelry boxes stolen. One, a Japanese box, contained a pair of jewelry bracelets and other, a wooden box, a gold bracelet and a small basket in which there was a gold bracelet with imitation diamonds set in it.

The saloon of Arado & Bernero, No. 1027 Washington avenue, was entered and some whisky and cigars stolen. The thieves also attempted to blow the safe open, but failed.

NEW YORK, January 31.—At noon yesterday two men went into the Third Avenue stable and asked to see Treasurer Beaver of the road. Capt. Robertson conveyed their request to Mr. Beaver, who was in the stable. He had heard that one of the men, John J. Collins, had a pistol. Collins formerly was employed on the road, but is now out of work. Mr. Beaver would not consent to see the men unless Police Capt. Gannan was present. The Captain was in charge of the police outside, and when Collins and his companion entered the office, Capt. Gannan followed unobscured by them. He stood a few feet behind Collins. The other visitor began to talk with Mr. Beaver and after a moment Collins put his hand slowly into his pocket and drew out a revolver. He did not have time to raise the weapon for Capt. Gannan stepped forward and seized his hand. There was a very brief scuffle and then Collins and his revolver were prisoner. Mr. Beaver was considerably disturbed by the episode but he positively refused to make a complaint against Collins. He was taken to court, where Justice Ford discharged him for lack of complaint. His revolver was a small Smith & Wesson seven shooter, loaded in a leather case.

WILL TRY TO RUN CARS.

This, the third day of the strike, opened with the same determination on the part of the strikers as the first. The two days' stoppage of the cars has cost the strikers $10,000, and the stockholders of the roads about $50,000. To-day the Belt Line and the Broadway line were the only ones to run. SUGGESTIONS FOR FRANCHISE.

A Caucus Held on the Police Commissionership by the Governor, Friends.

There was a meeting of Democratic leaders a few nights ago, called by C. O. Maffi, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. There were said to have been present, beside Mr. Maffi, C. C. Rainwater, J. M. Lewis, Charles H. Hays, George C. Hays, Orthwein, W. J. Pollard, J. G. Fraher, Seth W. Cobb and Chris Ellerbe. All the gentlemen mentioned are very close mouthed about the meeting, and there has been no public statement of the business transacted. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the appointment of Police Commissioners.

Mr. Maffi said the appointment of Police Commissioners is a matter of great importance, and that the Democratic party should be careful in its selection.

Powerfully on Religion—Aimed at Detective Agencies—Strikers Win.

By TELEGRAPH TO THE POST-DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., January 31.—In the Journal of United Labor to-day General Master Workman Powderly, under the head, "It is to be a Religious War," says:

"If a Knight of Labor in distress asks for aid in his power to give, without inquiring of his country or his creed, the Church of Rome is not dictating the policy of this order, and has never attempted to do so. Your General Master Workman was invited to explain the true position which the order occupies before the Bishops of Protestant churches as well as those of the Catholic Church. He was not successful in placing the order in its true position as a number of appointed anarchists charged that he had sold the Catholic Church for a few dollars."

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Fair weather; clearing; colder; northerly winds.

New York is enjoying a new sensation in the prospect of a Republican Cabinet with New York omitted.

This fact that Gen. HENDERSON is counted among the strong probabilities for the Cabinet will tend to reconcile Missourians to a few ill-advised selections of Gen. HARRISON.

It is not safe to predict that the next SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will be better than the last one, but it is safe to predict that it will be the best paper in St. Louis next Sunday.

Is it not about time for the leaders of the Democracy in St. Louis to sound the keynote for the coming campaign? If we remember rightly the last keynote was "Fraud forever," and it did not work.

The murder of CLAYTON was the legitimate result of the Plummerville ballot-box outrages. If there had been no stolen ballot-boxes there would have been no murder. The punishment of the murderer alone can wipe out the stain of the crime.

The fight against the dives and dens of St. Louis has thus far been carried on without any assistance from the Prohibitionists. It is possible that the Prohibitionists are afraid that their occupation would be gone if the dives and dens were suppressed?

There are any New Yorkers who contributed to the Wasmaker campaign fund they must feel astonished at the thought that by elevating WASKER to the Cabinet they may have kept their own State from obtaining Cabinet recognition.

EXCELLENCE COUNCIL, No. 17, Legion of Honor, has given a splendid example of broad-gauge liberality in its contribution to the Post-Dispatch Parnell Defense Fund. The spirit expressed in the letter accompanying the contribution is the kind that should animate all freedom-loving American citizens.

POLICEMEN are attempting to run the horse street cars in New York City and the citizens reading on their lines are enjoying the pleasures of pedestrianism.

On the other hand the patrons of the elevated roads possess the superior privilege of riding above the turmoil of the streets. There can be no doubt of their view of elevated roads.

The sudden death of Archduke RUDOLPH, Crown Prince of Austria, the news of which was first given locally by the Post-Dispatch yesterday, would be a startling event under any circumstances, but is rendered more so by the mystery which surrounds it. Rumors of suicide, accident and foul play are in circulation in Vienna. The efforts of the authorities to suppress information tend only to increase suspicion. That there should be any such rumors or any attempt to conceal the truth, when the death occurred at so short a distance from Vienna, while the Archduke was surrounded by friends, almost amounts to proof of unnatural causes, or at least of extremely unpleasant circumstances connected with it. But under the censorship of the press existing in Austria, the public will have to get information as the authorities choose to dribble it out.

WHO CARES?

The Constitution of the United States expressly provides that "All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills."

This is an express limitation of the Senate's power over revenue bills to the simple function of approving or rejecting revenue bills proposed by the House or of suggesting and concurring in amendments thereto. It plainly interdicts the enactment of any revenue bill originating in or formed by the Senate.

It was not inserted in anticipation of a time when the Senate would be controlled by millionaires and attorneys for great "hoolie combines" and incorporated monopolies. But not until the Senate was thus controlled did it ever dare to disregard that interdict and assume the function of originating and framing a revenue bill of its own, while refusing to consider, amend or vote on a House bill reducing taxation to the needs of the Government.

The idea of the framers of the Constitution was that Senators who hold office for six years and who are chosen not by the people, but by legislative caucuses, should not be permitted to usurp what is, in all free countries, the exclusive privilege of representatives chosen directly by the people and immediately answerable to them.

The present Senate has sought to reverse the constitutionally fixed relations of the two houses to revenue bills. It has not only refused to consider a revenue bill regularly passed by the House, but now insists that the House shall be content with the function of merely proposing and concurring in amendments to a revenue bill originating in and framed by the Senate. It is not at all strange that a bill so unconstitutionally conceived should violate every constitutional limitation of the taxing power—should increase taxes, not to raise revenue, but to reduce revenue, and to pour the proceeds into the coffers of a favored few.

THE CLAYTON MURDER.

Even the most purblind partisan, no matter what he may say for political effect, can see that the assassination of Col. JOHN M. CLAYTON is for obvious reasons a greater shock to Arkansas Democrats than to Republicans anywhere. He was so honest, so useful and so amiable a man that every prominent Democrat in the State loved him and missed no opportunity to sound his praises.

His murder can be imputed to nobody but the unknown scoundrels who stole the Plummerville ballot-box, and who were rendered desperate by the danger to which his contest for BRECKENRIDGE's seat exposed them. Rewards for discovery and apprehension had been offered by both parties; the penitentiary stared the villains in the face, and they sought to save themselves by assassinating him in the night.

But the Democrats of Arkansas should be keenly sensible of the fact that they can secure justice for themselves in this matter only by bringing the murderers to justice—not by lynch law, as some of them propose—but by enlisting the whole population in the search for those ballot-box thieves, and in the search for evidence to convict them of this horrible murder. The deed and the motive for it should be clearly shown in a court of justice before any man is hung or killed for it.

The summary execution of any man on this account without a fair trial would most suspiciously resemble another murder committed to cover up that theft of the ballot-box.

It was a suggestive coincidence that BOULANGER's triumphant election in Paris fell upon the birthday of the German Emperor. While BOULANGER disclaims any intention of imitating the French people to war, yet he is popularly looked upon as the representative of the revenge sentiment and as Minister of War he labors were chiefly directed towards placing the army upon an effective war basis. It is within possibility that the popular French General and the young German Emperor may meet at the head of contending armies.

In the search at Chicago for railroad ticket scalpers on whom to inflict punishment, the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission ran upon several railroad officials. The officials were given a reprimand and promised not to do it again. If they keep their promise railroad ticket scalping is doomed, and if they do not the Commissioners might try legal punishment instead of school-room reprimand.

According to our dispatches to-day, the Germans are playing a high game in Samoa since their defeat by the natives. They have assumed control of Apia, and search all vessels touching at Samoan ports for articles contraband of war. This course of the German officials is likely to add fresh complications to the present difficulties, and will certainly make an amicable settlement more uncertain.

The weather tries hard to reach wintry norms and cold, but only succeeds in attaining autumn crispness and frostiness. Pleasant as the present mild temperature and clear sky are, a few weeks of downright winter weather would be welcome, soon after the most paralytic body of rain. If only for the purpose of nipping the disease germs and the budding prospects of high prices for ice in the summer.

It is possible that the announcement of the acceptance of the State portfolio by Mr. BLAINE may have something to do with the decidedly anti-jingo views of Senator SHERMAN on the subject of the Samoan difficulties. There is reason to believe that Senator SHERMAN would not be averse to spiking BLAINE's guns before he starts on his glory campaign.

ONLY a political crank, as crazy with partisan malice as GUTIERREZ himself, would hold a whole State or a political party guilty of the murder of a man so popular among his political opponents as JOHN M. CLAYTON. Was such a wholesale imputation of murderous sentiment so little less atrocious than the murder itself.

It is incumbent on the people in general and the Democratic party in particular of the State of Arkansas to repudiate political assassination by all the means in their power. The murder of JOHN M. CLAYTON should be brought to justice, if it takes all the money and men in Arkansas to do it.

The total number of immigrants to the United States during the calendar year of 1888 was 515,515, against 510,058 in 1887. There were 698,431 arrivals in 1881, 788,092 in 1882 and 698,323 in 1883, from which figures and the immigration fell to 305,846 in 1885, and to 334,303 in 1886.

Smoking Out Corruption.

A shocking story of Congressional corruption comes from Washington. It is said that when the vote was being taken on the resolution setting apart a day for the Oklahoma bill, Mr. SPRINGER was downcast because he feared its defeat. Representative O'NEILL of Missouri approached him and waded a cigar that the resolution would be adopted. Mr. SPRINGER accepted the bet, and looked more cheerful. The treacherous O'NEILL then passed word around among his colleagues, and a large number in turn offered Mr. SPRINGER a cigar, which was invariably accepted. Then they went off to the tellers, and voting as they had betted, carried the resolution by eight majority. Mr. SPRINGER was full of delight until he was reminded of his own bargain. He was probably the first case on record where votes in Congress went as low as 125 cents apiece.

THE CLAYTON MURDER.

From the Philadelphia Record. There are other provisions for securing the secrecy of the ballot and the purity of elections; but no reform of the election laws has been made since the passage of the act of 1870. The act of 1870 was a failure. It was a failure because it was a failure to secure the secrecy of the ballot and the purity of elections. It was a failure because it was a failure to secure the secrecy of the ballot and the purity of elections. It was a failure because it was a failure to secure the secrecy of the ballot and the purity of elections.

Mrs. ALTHOUSE of Lockport, N. Y., fell into a trance at 3 p. m. January 3, and has not yet awakened.

Mrs. FAYETTA C. SNED ("Fay"), a well-known Washington society correspondent, died there Thursday.

PRINCESS MARINA ENGLITCHOFF, a member of the Russian nobility, is lecturing in New York on the ways of her countrymen.

Mrs. HARRISON is not an admirer of Wagner, although she paid the composer's funeral expenses. She argues that an opera should be musical.

The working women of Mexico have been celebrating the anniversary of the foundation of their Mutual Benefit Association by a series of social entertainments.

Mrs. STANFORD, wife of the California Senator, has a Chinese cook in her employ who is not happy unless the Stanfords are giving a dinner party every twenty-four hours.

GEN. BOULANGER's complaints against his wife, in his petition for divorce, amount substantially to saying that she is a nuisance.

Mrs. HARRISON attended the opera in New York Friday evening in company with the wife of Vice-President Morton. The dimensions of her dress were 18 feet in circumference.

Mrs. DARTY GARDNER, the daughter of the Attorney-General, is so attractive that she would be a belle in any ball-room. Yet she is never seen at balls or, indeed, at any other social gathering. She goes to breakfast, luncheon and tea, and that is all.

A SCATHING CRITICISM.

REPORT ON THE INSURANCE DEPARTMENT BY A LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

The General Management of the Office Said to Be Careless and Without System—Extraneous Charges—Allegations Against Attorney Harvey—Recommendations by the Committee—Mr. Carr and Mr. Harvey Seen.

HE committee appointed by Gov. Morehouse to settle with the Auditor and Treasurer in the report which has been submitted to the Thirty-fifth General Assembly, has a great deal to say about the management of the Insurance Department which is interesting.

The committee consisted of Senator M. R. Smith, and Representatives E. A. Sear and L. G. Kelly. It has been the custom of former committees appointed to investigate the condition and manner of conducting the Insurance Department, but this committee recognizes, as is stated in the report, "the immense amount of money owned and operated in this state by foreign as well as domestic companies, and their activity in pushing their business in every branch, and the wonderful success they have achieved among the people and the tax-payers of the State, and the importance of this office to be overlooked."

It was on December 22, that the committee visited the office, which is located in the Turner building, on Fifth street, between Olive and Locust streets, and met the Insurance Commissioner, Hon. Alfred Carr, and Messrs. Chris Kierbee and Given Campbell, the attorneys for the Department. The general impression which prevails in the report of the investigation shows that the result of the examination was anything but satisfactory to the committee. The words of the report are as follows: "This department of State was unique in its position as it has been in its practice and both are curiously novel. It has been a little kingdom within itself, to which the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices have been attached. It would seem, for mere convenience. The State Treasurer being used as a kind of savings bank for the Commissioners, and the Auditor's office a kind of a bank for the Insurance Department. The report is a scathing criticism of the management of the Insurance Department, and the committee's findings are as follows: "The department of State was unique in its position as it has been in its practice and both are curiously novel.
